County Clerk Arrested for Funds Misuse

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — The Sebastian County Clerk was arrested here Friday and charged with misuse of $5,000 in public funds.

Sheriff Fred B. Hays arrested Herman E. Jones, who was released after he posted $5,000 bail.

Prosecutor Lyman L. Mikel charged Jones with using public funds in August, October and December, 1963, for his own use.

Circuit Judge Paul Wolfe suspended Jones from office and conferred with Gov. Orval E. Faubus about a replacement.

Tom Blake, a reporter for the Southwest American newspaper here, uncovered the shortage of funds, Mikel said.

Blake checked an audit of the clerk's office covering Jan. 1, 1963, through Dec. 31, 1963, and found this notation:

"The county officers' accounts were found to be in good condition for the period covered in the audit report except the county and probate clerk's accounts. The bank accounts of the county and probate clerk were not sufficient to cover the account balances Dec. 31, 1963. The deficiency amounted to $5,065.35. Restitution was made to the official bank accounts on March 3, 1964, by a deposit made by Herman E. Jones in the City National Bank of Fort Smith."

Jones' deposit balanced the accounts after the shortage had existed for more than two months early this year, Mikel said.

The audit was signed by Aubrey McCasland of Little Rock, director of county audits of the state comptroller's office.

Later, McCasland told The Associated Press that deficiencies in county funds are discovered "now and then" by state audits. He said it didn't happen often.

McCasland said only the Sebastian County audit revealed a deficiency among 22 the comptroller's office has received. He said the other 53 audits would be in soon.

Mikel said the comptroller's office notified him that there had been a deficiency and that restitution had been made.

Balke asked Jones on Tuesday for a copy of the audit, which Jones provided, with this statement: "I regret that because of severe illness in my family, the final and complete accounting this year was somewhat delayed."

Mikel said a conviction on the charge carries a penalty of not less than five nor more than 21 years in the state prison.

Homeless Children Are Costly

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The 1,200 homeless children in the care of the Welfare Department are going to cost the department more than its appropriated $450,000 to care for them this year.

Welfare Commissioner Jim Phillips has taken the problem to Gov. Orval E. Faubus. He estimated it would cost $600,000 to care for the children through July 1.

Faubus is urging Phillips to step up adoption procedures. But the problem is more complex, Phillips says.

"Most of these children are in our hands under orders of the courts to take care of them until further orders," he said. "They come from homes broken by divorces or separations and most of them are children in the 10 year to 18 age group and not wanted for adoption."

Phillips said that some 60 to 70 per cent of the 1,200 children are mentally retarded.

There is no danger of running out of money before the next legislative session, Phillips said, because of a small surplus. But a larger appropriation will be necessary for the next two years, he said.

Weather

Cloudy and mild today with a few scattered showers tonight. Sunday fair and a little warmer.

Woman Killed by Hit, Run Driver

EUDORA, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Lilly Slider, 67 of Eudora, was killed by a hit and run driver Thursday night, Constable Steve Ball said.

The victim was walking across U. S. 65 in front of her home four miles north of Eudora when she was struck. Ball said authorities were searching for the driver of the car.

Anchorage Makes Plans to Rebuild

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Anchorage City Council, acting just three weeks after Alaska's great earthquake, took the first step early today in a $50-million plan to rebuild this shattered city.

The plan includes a new 30-acre central business core—possibly bordered by an "earthquake park"—served by large parking areas and fed by one-way traffic.

The plan would be effected through an urban renewal project designed to qualify for 75 per cent federal money.

A consulting firm, Candeb, Fleissig & Associates, Newark, N.J., prepared the proposal under a $35,000 contract with the Alaska Housing Authority.

The council in a 9-0 vote authorized the authority to seek the federal funds.

The urban area of Anchorage largest city in Alaska with a metropolitan population of 100,000, suffered an estimated $200 million loss in the $750-million quake March 27. The upheaval destroyed 215 homes and left 157 commercial buildings unusable in the Anchorage area.

Local DAR Chapter Is Honored

Mrs. George W. Peck, Regent of the John Cain Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, reported to the chapter Wednesday, April 15 on the State DAR Conference she had attended in Jonesboro.

Mrs. John A. Carr of Arkadelphia, State Regent, resided over the meeting, and the highlight of it was a visit by the President General, Mrs. Robert V. Duncan of Alexandria, Va.

At the state meeting the John Cain Chapter was awarded the Gold Honor Roll for outstanding work in the past year, particularly during Constitution Week and American History Month.

The chapter-sponsored Good Citizen, Miss Judy Jackson of Lewisville, won the State Good Citizen Girl Award and received a medal and a $100 U.S. Savings Bond. She is now eligible to compete for the national award at the National Congress in April.

The President General gratefully acknowledged the presentation by the John Cain Chapter of the Signature of the first Governor of Arkansas. It had belonged to one of Governor Conway's granddaughters, Mrs. Charles Taylor, and will now be placed in the Americana Room in the National DAR Museum in Washington, D.C.

In the list of next year's state officers, Mrs. Paul W. Klipsch will be State Librarian. Mrs. Charles Haynes, organizing Regent of the John Cain Chapter and honorary State Regent who accompanied Mrs. Peck to Jonesboro, took part in all professional and ceremonial activities.

During the business meeting which followed the conference report, the secretary read the resignations of Mrs. Peck and Mrs. Otis Blackwood, Vice-Regent, who are forced to relinquish their offices due to circumstances beyond their control.

Mrs. Franklin McLarty, Mrs. Gordon E. Tyler, and Mrs. Herbert Stephens were hostesses for the luncheon meeting which was held at the Heritage House. The tables were beautifully decorated with lilacs and pink roses, and a delightful spring luncheon was served.

In May at program on "What Makes Music American" by Mrs. Jewel Moore, Jr. will be given in connection with the local Festival of Fine Arts.

Rockefeller on First Leg of His Campaign Trail

By JOHN R. STAR R
MOUNTAIN VIEW, Arkansas (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller went on a three-hour hand-shaking tour of the second Arkansas Folk Festival here Friday.

It was the first tour of his gubernatorial campaign. He announced on April 4 that he would run for governor on the Republican ticket, but has not yet filed.

Rockefeller flew into the busy little mountain town of 863 persons in mid-afternoon just to meet and greet voters. He seemed pleased at the results.

"I haven't met anyone who told me he wouldn't vote for me," Rockefeller said.

"That doesn't mean they all told me they would support me," he laughed, "but at least I haven't met anyone who said, 'I'm a Democrat and I wouldn't vote for you under any circumstances.'"

Rockefeller wore a straw western-style hat a white shirt without a tie, and his familiar cowboy boots.

He shook hands around the rustic square, then went to the Stone County Fairgrounds and met visitors at the Ozark Foot-hills Handicraft Guild's annual show.

One booth operator gave Rockefeller a bird-feeder as a gift.

Rockefeller said he would make many such visits of this kind to various counties before the gubernatorial campaign gets hot.

He is not expected to be opposed in the Republican Primary and his big campaign probably will not begin until near the November general election. Gov. Orval E. Faubus is likely to be Rockefeller's opponent.

The crowds in Mountain View were not as large as they were a year ago when folk singer Jimmy Driftwood put on the first Arkansas Folk Festival.

Economy Is Just Better Than Usual

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Better than usual is becoming the standard term in most government reports on how the economy is behaving this spring.

There are a few laggards but most measures of business growth show gains above average for the season.

Profits are rising. Jobs are increasing in number and paying more to many workers. Factories are turning out more goods. Consumers are buying more. So stocks aren't piling up in manufacturers' and distributors' hands as they would if the economic upswing were topping out.

The Federal Reserve Board's industrial production index has registered its biggest gain since last October. It is at a record peak of 128.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average, for a near one-half point rise since February.

Jobs in manufacturing normally remain unchanged between February and March, but this time rose 49,000 to some 17,033,000. Almost all of the gain was in the durable goods industries. This is hailed as much as an expression of confidence of the type that tends to snowball as a response to firm orders.

And the durables turned in the best performance in pushing the industrial index higher, with the business equipment companies stepping up output the most.

Counting in jobs outside manufacturing, the total rose 515,000 in the latest month, against an average of 66,000 for that time of year. In mid-March the total was 68,517,000. Unemployment fell 231,000 to 4,293,000. But the increasing size of the labor force kept the jobless rate at 5.4 per cent.

Durable goods employment is now back to where it was in August 1957 before increasing mechanization of factories and the 1960 recession aggravated the problem.

Construction also rose more in March than is usual. The average increase from February is 7 per cent. But this year the gain was 9 per cent. Private construction came to $3.3 billion, and public construction added $1.3 billion.

Carson &amp; Barnes Circus Here

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

The good show and resulting good work of a Shrine Circus is well-known throughout the country. For the first time such a presentation will be held in Hope on Thursday, April 23, when the Carson & Barnes Circus will open its season in Hope under the auspices of the Millwood Shrine Club.

Today, April 18, the folks in Hope will be treated to an old-fashioned circus parade in our city starting at 2 p.m. It will be a preview of what will be in store for those attending the three-ring circus next week at the old airport near the compress. But only a small preview.

For who can visualize a lion act by only seeing the lion, and the fascination of aerial acts are brought to light only by their performance. Clowns are the same regardless of setting, so the Shrine Clown Unit from Texarkana will provide their own charm for the parade.

But what about the circus you ask? Information about it was obtained from Keller Pressly, superintendent, who is staying at Fair Park. No wonder the circus performance will be in the large area of the old airport. The main tent is approximately 100 feet wide and 300 feet long with a seating capacity of some 2,500. Additional seats can be added if needed.

That means that children from the entire Millwood Shrine Club area will be able to find seats for such entertainment as tight wire artists, aerial performers, wild animal acts, Li-berty Horses, a pony show, and many more. A side-show menagerie will include such animals as llamas, elephants, bears, lions, and porcupines. Performances will be at 2:30 and 8 p.m.

For about 50 years the Carson & Barnes Circus, which has wintered here and will perform in Hope next week, has been in operation with new acts added every year plus the return of favorite ones. The result is a 1½ hour show that is always entertaining.

Notice we didn't say "entertaining to children" but just "entertaining," for is there a person alive who doesn't become a child at the sight and sound of a circus?

For the most fun at such a show — take a child. You'll like the circus, but you'll like it so much more through the eyes of a child. The money derived from the sale of tickets will be used by the Millwood Shrine Club for underprivileged children.

Whereas crippled children are the object of help from many Shrine undertakings, the Shrine Circus benefits the underprivileged, another Noble enterprise. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Millwood Shrine Club.

General admission is 75 cents for children and $1.50 for adults. The local committee in charge of arrangements is Harry Shiver, George Frazier, and H. M. Olsen, club president.

Groups Stay Clear of Fuss in Pentagon

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee steered clear today of the Pentagon controversy over relative U.S. and Soviet military might as it recommended $46,785,867,000 in new funds for the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting July 1.

This is $685,133,000 less than President Johnson requested but enough, the committee said in its report, "to continue the maintenance of the strongest military establishment in the peacetime history of the United States."

It is $434,143,000 less than the department was given for the present fiscal year.

With only minor variations, the committee went along with the administration's recommendations as outlined to it by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. It said it was "inclined to conclude" with McNamara's testimony that "the missile force we have programmed can be depended upon to carry out its military mission under all of the conditions we can foresee."

The report, written by Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., did not mention testimony of Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, to the effect that the Soviets are narrowing the military gap between them and the United States and that the administration is placing too much emphasis on missiles.

The United States, the committee said, is "superior in military strength to any other power" and the new appropriations recommended "will support a continuation of this superiority."

"This bill," it added, "provides the forces to keep our government in a position to deal firmly and decisively, and with adequate military backing, in international matters."

Judges to Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The annual meeting of the Arkansas Municipal Judges Council will be at Little Rock April 30. The council will discuss recommendations of the Arkansas Judicial Commission on administration, structure and personnel of the courts.

Fair Cost Is Really Up to You

By FRANCIS STILLLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — Many people around the country are wondering what it will cost them to see the World's Fair once they are in New York. The answer is a little or a lot.

Most of the fair exhibits are free.

There are some special rides, shows and other features for which there will be a fee. Charges range from 25 cents to $6.

Actually, a family can truly see the fair without spending much, even for food.

Watching Sudanese nationals working on native arts at Republic of Sudan building, 25 cents. "Wonderland" water and stage show, $1 to $3. Ride in an antique automobile, 50 cents for adults and 35 for children.

Auto thrill show, $1 and $1.50. Belgian Village, with more than 100 buildings, $1.25 and 60 cents for children. Visit aboard sailing ship Bounty, 80 cents for adults and 50 for children. John Ringling North Continental Tent Circus, $1 to $3.

Hollywood, U.S.A., demonstration of movie making and movie museum, $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Native floor show at Pavilion of Indonesia, $2. Ride on captive helicopter to height of 100 feet, $1. Twenty-minute cruise on lake in amusement area, $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. Shows on Mississippi River showboat, $1 and 50 cents. Ride on monorail 40 feet above fairgrounds, 80 cents.

Observation platform atop 226-foot tower at New York State building, highest point of fair, $1 adults and 25 cents children. Visit aboard reproduction of Columbus' Santa Maria, $1. Noted French puppet show, $2.50 adults and $1.25 children.

Simulated trip to moon in travel and transportation building, 75 cents adults and 25 cents for children.

"Bright Lights of Broadway" a stage show at Texas Pavilion re-enacting the best of 100 years of American musical comedy, $2 to $6.

Admission to the fair is $2 for adults and $1 for children. Parking a car at the grounds is $1.50 a day.

Food comes at all prices, from 30-cent hot dogs and 40-cent hamburgers to high-priced American and foreign specialties.

Many persons will prefer public transportation from hotels or motels. Fares range from 15 cents on the subway to $5 or $10 for helicopter; bus, sightseeing boat, hydrofoil boat and railroad.

Hotel and motel prices in the metropolitan area very widely. On the fairgrounds, there will be various forms of transportation to save a lot of walking on the 8 miles of walkways. Prices range from 25 cents to $3.

In any case, everyone should bring comfortable walking shoes.

Scholarships to University

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Three students received scholarships at the University of Arkansas prior to a Journalism Day banquet here Thursday night.

Jack W. Hill, a junior from North Little Rock, received a $150 scholarship in honor of W. J. Lemke, professor emeritus and founder of the university's journalism department.

The $250 Northwest Arkansas Times scholarship went to Pamela J. Roelis, a freshman from Fayetteville.

Ronald A. Robinson, a junior from Little Rock, received the $500 Donald W. Reynolds Foundation Journalism Scholarship.

Speakers at the banquet included Lemke, Gene Herrington of the Arkansas Democrat, and Pearl Causey of the Lincoln Ledger at Star City. Causey is president of the Arkansas Press Association.

Hendrix Host to Alpha Chi Meet

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — About 80 students from Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana are expected to attend the 40th annual meeting of Region II of the Society of Alpha Chi at Hendrix College here Saturday. Alpha Chi is a national honor scholarship society for college juniors and seniors.

Bids Taken on Post Canal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Boyd Construction Co., Grenada, Miss., is apparent low bidder at $3,404,382, on construction of the western six miles of the Arkansas Post Canal. The Canal will provide a navigation channel between Arkansas Post and the White River, giving barge traffic access to the Mississippi River. The eastern three miles of the canal is now under construction.

Cut in Taxes Helps Stock Market Rise

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A tax rise boosts prices on the London stock exchange. A tax cut is credited with helping American stock prices hit new highs.

In both cases stock traders are betting as how consumers will react.

The London theory is that Britons will go right on drinking and smoking just as much as before this week's announcement of a ten per cent hike in taxes on beverages and tobacco. And earlier fears that other industry products would also be hit were allayed.

The American theory is that the federal income tax cut which began showing up last month in larger take-home pay will mean that U.S. consumers will spend more for goods and services and that businessmen will step up production and sales competition to get the extra dollars.

But if the British tax increase and the American tax reduction had the same initial effect on stock prices, the motives of the two governments were quite different.

The London government is trying to put a brake on a booming economy that is edging toward inflation and increasing imports. Earlier it had raised interest rates with this same aim in mind.

The Washington government is trying to beef up an already prosperous economy. The hope is that it will expand enough to create jobs faster than the labor force is growing as teen-agers mature. The hope also is that in the process another round of inflation isn't set off with the effect of nullifying the gain in personal incomes.

Both governments would like to see their exports increase. Holding down prices and production costs is one way of helping producers sell their products abroad.

In the British case, the need to expand exports is acute because a prosperous home society has been importing more and the balance of trade now and then runs against Britain. This puts pressure on the pound sterling.

The United States for several years has had a favorable balance of trade—its exports have topped imports by a sizable amount. But it sends so many other dollars abroad—for loans, grants, investments, military expenditures—that the U.S. balance of payments has been running a deficit. And this doesn't help the dollar's standing and awhile back was causing a disservice.

Co-ops File Suit on Milling Firm

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A suit was filed in U.S. District Court here Thursday by nine agricultural cooperatives, seeking a $188,988 judgment against the MFA Milling Co. of Springfield, Mo.

The suit claimed MFA had paid only part of the patronage refunds due them on purchases of feed and supplies for the years 1953-63. It said MFA declared at the end of the 1963 fiscal year that refunds due for that year would be paid only as credit on future purchases.

The plaintiffs contend this was discrimination against co-operators which are no longer members of MFA.

The plaintiffs are The Southern Farmers Association of Little Rock North Arkansas Farm Supply, Batesville; Faulkner County Farmers Association, Conway; Sevier County Farmers Co-operative, De Queen; Farmers Co-operative, Fayetteville; Farmers Co-operative of Fort Smith; Polk County Farmers Association, Mena; Pope County Farmers Association, Russellville and Miller-Bowie County Farmers Association, Texarkana.

Civil Rights Bill Causing Extra Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate said today they are opposed to round-the-clock sessions called for by the floor manager of the debate. A stalled civil right bill as a means of forcing action.

"I think we have dallied too long and ought to get down to voting," Democrat Mike Mansfield of Montana said as the Senate was called into a Saturday session that ends a sixth week of consideration of the House-passed measure.

Mansfield told a reporter he is against round-the-clock sessions because they would "hurt the proponents more than the opponents" of the bill.

Republican Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a separate interview that keeping the Senate going nonstop would not improve the situation. He said it would only make senators "more testy."

Mansfield's view clashes with that of his second-in-command Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

Humphrey, floor manager of the bill, said Friday he will ask for round-the-clock session unless some action on proposed amendments is forthcoming before the end of another week.

Protesting that Southern foes of the bill are engaged in what amounts to a sit-in, he said that "what's going on here now is an affront to the Senate and an insult to the galleries, which have included thousands of visitors."

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Dixie forces, was asked if he thought the Southerners would be worn down by round-the-clock sessions. "I don't think so," he said.

The 19 Southerners battling the bill are organized into three teams that take turns in carrying the speaking load. Each team has one day on duty and then two days off.

Not all the talking is done by the Southerners. Friday, the Senate was in session about 3½ hours before Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., one of the Southern captains, could get started on a speech.

Rules Back Wages Must Be Paid

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — The Labor Department has filed a suit in U.S. District Court at Fayetteville asking that Tyson Poultry Co. of Springdale pay employees $5,087 in back wages.

The suit said 44 employees were paid less than their legal wage and 19 were due overtime pay. Tyson ships eggs in interstate commerce, which is why the federal agency filed the suit, the suit said.

Escapee Caught in California

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Charles Eugene Lamkin, 41, who escaped last Aug. 8 from the Arkansas State Prison at Tucker, was arrested by FBI agents here Thursday.

He was picked up at the home of his former wife, Margaret Fifield, and held to await extradition.

Lamkin was sentenced to 21 years in the Arkansas prison for a 1956 murder in Hot Springs.

Increased Returns

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service predicts that Arkansas income tax returns will increase by 50 per cent over the next decade.

Fred W. Johnson, district director at Little Rock, said the prediction is based on increasing returns the past several years.

He estimated 500,000 returns would be filed this year, compared to 484,501 in 1963.

Regulations Hit Foreign Entertainers

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce today derided new Labor Department regulations on foreign entertainers and wondered if the Beatles would "need the O.K. of a Labor Department civil servant" to visit again.

"Yeah, yeah! yeah!" the Chamber chortled in a press release calling attention to an item in its weekly newsletter "Washington Report" criticizing the regulations.

"No! no! no!" replied a Labor Department spokesman when asked if he thought the Beatles or other famous foreign entertainers would be barred from the United States by the regulations.

What caught the Chamber's eye was a requirement that certain types of temporary foreign entertainers secure government certification that there are no qualified, unemployed domestic performers capable of performing in the same capacity. If certification is denied, the foreign entertainers cannot enter the country.

To administer the program, said "Washington Report," three new "offices specializing in entertainers" will have to be established in three cities.

The item concluded: "Unemployment is certainly a serious problem, however the Department of Labor appears to be concentrating their solutions in nebulous areas and only assisting the employment statistics by the amount of new civil servants that are hired to administer the project."

The Labor Department spokesman said the object of the regulation is to protect "secondary" American entertainers—chorus lines and such. The intention certainly is not to bar foreign stars, he said, and the regulations specifically exempt "unique" talent.

President Is Hopeful for Rail Pact

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP)—With President Johnson still hopeful of voluntary settlement in the national railroad crisis, negotiators and federal mediators continued talks at a stepped-up pace today.

"I am not an overly optimistic man, but I do believe that under our collective bargaining system a result can be reached," Johnson told a news conference Thursday.

"I hope and pray it will be by the end of the week," he said. The comment followed Johnson's statement Wednesday that "we should know definitely, no later than next Monday, whether the parties to this dispute will settle it by the process of bargaining and by responsible reason."

Johnson didn't say what he would do if the talks fail to remove the threat of a nationwide strike at 12:01 a.m. April 25.

The White House said day and night talks, with mediators trying to get both sides to give ground, would continue until Monday.

George Reedy, White House press secretary, indicated there is little possibility a final determination will be announced this weekend.

Johnson's implied Monday deadline would leave him another five days to consider other measures if the talks fail, but he continued to shy away from any hint that he would ask for emergency legislation in that event.

The dispute between the carriers and the brotherhoods goes back five years. Johnson barely averted a strike last Thursday night when he won agreement to a 15-day truce to permit a last-ditch round of negotiations.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—Danny Kaye, who made an off-hand reference to a leg injury on his CBS Wednesday night show, actually had a serious accident.

Kaye was making spaghetti for a party of 15 at his home 10 days ago when a pot of boiling water spilled over his right leg and foot. Foot and leg swelled into an enormous, intensely painful blister that put him in bed for five days.

CBS executives urged Danny to rerun an earlier program this week but the comedian was determined not to skip a show. He devised and rehearsed Wednesday's entire show around a specially constructed wheelchair. His injured leg was propped up and surrounded by a protective cage.

Danny, throughout the program, as seen only in closeup—never below the waist and never moving around. And it was still a swell show.

"If it goes well," he cracked earlier, "maybe we should do them all sitting down."

It will be, in fact, at least another six weeks before Kaye can do a show on his foot, and he is still in considerable pain. But the show is going on.

Art Carney will be seen in a serious role Sunday night in NBC's "A Day Like Today," playing a man looking back over what he believes was his last day on earth after taking a dose of poison by accident.

In spite of frequent serious parts, Carney still is closely identified with comedy. "We only made 39 of 'The Honeymooners,'" he said. "But they are still playing around on reruns. Kids, who weren't old enough to see the originals, invariably recognize me as Ed Norton, the sewer worker."

Recommended weekend viewing: Sunday—"20th Century," CBS, 6-6:30 p.m., documentary treatment on the work of Dr. Howard A. Rusk, specialist in the rehabilitation of the disabled; "Lucille Ball Comedy Hour," CBS, 8-9, special program with Bob Hope as co-star; "A Day Like Today," NBC, 10-11, drama with Art Carney.

Didn't Play Well But Won Anyway

DETROIT (AP)—"We really didn't play well but we won it. They gave it to us good at Toronto so now let's see how they like it."

That was as close as Detroit Red Wings manager Coach Sid Abel came to admitting his team had its hands full after jumping to a three-goal lead in the third game of the Stanley Cup hockey playoff finals Thursday night.

The Red Wings went ahead 2 games to 1 with a 4-3 victory over the Maple Leafs on Alex Delvecchio's dramatic last-minute goal. Toronto had tied it seconds earlier.

THE STORY: Tony Malcolm, a friendless American derelict in Spain, has been drinking himself to death because he believes he was responsible for his wife's death. She took his place on a photographic assignment when he was ill with pneumonia.

VI

Domingo's was crowded that night, with fishermen pressed close together along the bar and waiters working quickly to serve the groups seated at tables.

In the middle of the large, square room stood a poker table with a green felt cover shining under a naked overhead light bulb. It was the most prominent feature in Domingo's bar: this large round table and the inevitable group of players sitting about it, their faces sharply etched by the naked light beating down on them from the low, beamed ceiling.

For when Domingo was winning everyone was happy, and the smoky air trembled with noise and laughter. When he lost the room became still and quiet, and tonight he was losing; and so the piano was silent; the musician stood with the fishermen at the bar, while Toni sat alone at her table turning the pages of a magazine so slowly and carefully that the sound was only a whisper on the air.

She wore a white silk dress, high heels, and a twist of jasmine in her hair, but the festivity of her costume mocked the look in her eyes as she risked a cautious glance at Domingo.

Domingo was a Frenchman who had come to Spain near the end of the war with Germany. That much was definitely known about him, but the details of his background were obscure; some said he had deserted from the French army, others that he had collaborated with the German Occupation and had fled to escape reprisals from the Maquis. Whatever the facts, he had lived on the southern shores of Spain ever since.

The three men playing with Domingo that night avoided his eyes; they flipped over their cards without studying them, and there was a certain desperation in their manner, as if they hoped that the rapidity of the play might hasten the end of the game.

On Domingo's right was an Englishman named Clarke, who wore a blazer with a silk scarf knotted loosely under the open collar of his soiled white shirt. Opposite Domingo sat a Pole named Zaren, a squat middle-aged man with a bald head and neatly trimmed blond mustache.

To Domingo's left was a young man named Paco. He had glossy black hair, tenderly arranged in swooping waves, large, liquid brown eyes, and smooth, rosy-brown skin, and this combination of assets had led him into a series of profitable relationships with female tourists up and down the coast.

As a result, he owned a silver wrist watch, a silver cigarette case, a colorful wardrobe, and a small, shiny motorcycle. Paco was supremely confident at this moment in life that the world had been created solely for his own physical enjoyment.

Malcolm was exhausted when he finally reached the Arroyo de Miel. Weakness and fear had hounded him close to delirium, but when he saw the lights of Domingo's bar shining through the darkness, his strength returned in a last, flaring burst and he stumbled on toward the life promised by the pale yellow lights in the windows of the bar.

He was surprised and gratified by the silence in the room. Noise might have confused him, but everything was blessedly still and quiet.

Malcolm found a place for himself at the end of the bar. Domingo's was pleasant, he thought; very quiet, very well run, and larger than he had remembered it.

"Good evening," Malcolm said. He wondered how long Pepe had been standing there; Malcolm had been sure he was alone in the room. "You're looking very well, Pepe."

Pepe nodded expressionlessly.

Malcolm rubbed a hand over his heavy growth of whiskers and winked slyly at him. "I don't look very well, do I?"

Pepe shrugged slightly but said nothing.

"Let me tell you something," Malcolm said, winking again at Pepe. He leaned closer to the old man. "I've had a real stroke of luck. One of the biggest magazines in America sent me a cable today. They want me to do a series of stories on the southern coast of Spain. The bullfights, flamenco dancing, the tourist boom, the works. It's the greatest assignment I've ever had in my life."

As Malcolm finished speaking, the room erupted with cheerful, relaxed laughter and the musician hurried from the bar to his piano.

Domingo had won two hands in a row.

Against Any Insecticide Restriction

MEMPHIS (AP)—An Arkansas Farm Bureau spokesman told the Agriculture Department in a hearing today that the bureau will oppose any effort to limit the registered use of agricultural insecticides.

Arnold A. Berner of Little Rock, Farm Bureau director of public relations, presented the organization's views in connection with testimony relating to the use of Aldrin, Dieldrin and Endrin.

"Farmers must use some insecticides," Berner said, "if they are to produce food and fiber at all in some cases, and if they are to do so economically in others."

The hearing involved reported fish kills in the lower Mississippi River.

Berner said farmers also are concerned with preservation of fish and wildlife since most of them are outdoorsmen.

Though use of Aldrin, Dieldrin and Endrin has declined in Arkansas since 1959, he said, they plan an important role in production of Arkansas' principal crops, including rice, cotton and livestock. They are used to combat insects that cause disease and discomfort in humans, Berner said.

He said machinery and other technological aids are useful but can be dangerous if misused, mending the banning of their use because a fear people are careless with their privileges," he said. "The same goes for insecticides."

A University of Arkansas researcher reported Wednesday that mice fed a diet containing small amounts of Aldrin and Dieldrin developed cancer of the liver.

Dr. Joseph Song, associate professor of pathology at the University's Medical Center in Little Rock, told the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, meeting in Chicago, that cancerous liver cells invaded the blood stream in all the mice fed the pesticides.

A nourishing snack can ward off approaching fatigue, and that's the time to take a breather during your day's housework.

If your fatigue is habitual week after week, there may be a physical reason, even if you think you're perfectly healthy. A check-up by your doctor may reveal a simple physical cause. Poor vision, for example, may often can pep you up; try a you're dieting, a slower reducing plan may give you more pep.

To control those hidden negative emotions being blocked by fatigue, stop for a mental housecleaning; are those gnawing feelings (about your in-laws or someone else) worth holding on to or are they unimportant? Look squarely at them and chances are that you'll discover the causes have long since disappeared.

Get Exercise
Find time for play, especially outdoor sports. Try to discover new interests and activities. Step out of the old rut; variety won't give you time to be tired. Fresh enthusiasm for something new to be learned builds up energy. A break in daily routine often can pep you up; try a change from doing the same things day in and day out.

If you hate housework, and your children are school age, you might consider taking a part-time job which would get you home in time before the children arrive from school. Still, as a mother and a wife, you remain the keeper of your home. Try to see yourself not as a dull domesticated woman but as the center of human life, the bearer and inspiration of your children, the helpmate and the loved one. With this new outlook, energy should bubble up. Without some kind of joy in work for its own sake, there is not emotional satisfaction—only boredom and a tired feeling.

Make your life something warm and exciting—a zest that comes from within—and there'll be no room for feelings of fatigue.

Summer Apparently Has Now Arrived

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Summer weather arrived in Arkansas today, with clear to partly cloudy skies and high temperatures in the upper 80s. The Weather Bureau called for high readings of 80 to 88 today with warmer weather Friday. Lows of 64 to 66 were forecast for Friday.

Maximum readings Wednesday ranged from 75 to 85 degrees. Low readings early today ranged from 44 to 62.

North Whites Also Against Integration

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—It's a weird year, one of the weirdest in a long time.

In polls or presidential primaries:

1. A woman without a chance — Maine's Senator, Margaret Chase Smith—picks up speed but she's not going any place.

2. A prince of Southern segregationists — Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace—does surprisingly well in the North.

3. The men who talked and tried the hardest—New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater—finished behind the silent Sam type — Henry Cabot Lodge — who wasn't even there.

And Pennsylvania's Gov. William Scranton—who could rock himself to sleep with the monotonous insistence that he has no presidential ambitions while admitting he'd accept a "draft"—is still considered a likely Republican presidential prospect.

Yet, there are probably not 10 Republicans in 100 outside Pennsylvania who have any idea what Scranton thinks on any issue or even what kind of governor he has been.

Wallace went into the Wisconsin primary and captured 25 per cent of the total vote, proving if it needed proving, that a lot of Northern whites are just as much segregationist as Southern whites.

Then in the Illinois primary—where his name wasn't even on the ballot—more than 4,500 people wrote it in, giving him more votes than Rockefeller, Scranton, Michigan's Gov. George Romney, and Harold Stassen.

Mrs. Smith campaigned hard in the New Hampshire primary last month and wound up down near the bottom of the list with only 2,120 votes. In this week's Illinois primary she said she spent only $85 on two campaign appearances.

But when the returns came in she had almost 200,000 votes. Goldwater got 400,000. Their two names were the only ones on the ballot.

The Illinois write-in voters weren't satisfied with Goldwater or Mrs. Smith. They wrote in Lodge, giving him over 52,000 votes, and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, giving him over 24,000.

But the real weirdy in all of it is the popularity of Lodge who—because he is U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam under the Johnson administration—hasn't said a word about what he thinks on domestic issues.

And, because he hasn't held political office in 14 years—since John F. Kennedy took his Senate seat away from him in 1952—probably few Republicans can remember where he stands or what he thinks on anything.

Yet in the New Hampshire primary, where his name was not even on the ballot and voters decided to write it in, he finished first over all other Republicans who are, or want to be, considered for their party's nomination.

He came out ahead of Goldwater, Rockefeller and Mrs. Smith. Their names were on the ballot and they had campaigned hard around the state. Nixon's name was also written in. He finished fourth, behind Lodge, Goldwater and Rockefeller but ahead of Mrs. Smith.

And just recently in Oregon a poll among Republicans on their presidential preferences put Lodge far ahead of Nixon, Rockefeller, Goldwater and Mrs. Smith.

(Nixon says he's not seeking the presidential nomination but, for a man who says he isn't, he is doing a lot of talking, and has kept on talking about American problems even when he went on an overseas trip.)

The continuing popularity of Lodge, who has never said he is a candidate, might be interpreted as a changing attitude in American politics—that people like politicians who keep their mouths shut.

But that's an idea that can't be carried too far, otherwise the men who wind up being the Democratic and Republican candidates would have to go to Europe and stay there during the presidential campaign.

fact that man and other animals are constantly exposed to these two widely used pesticides," Song said.

Wallace in Win in Illinois Mock Poll

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—

The tempo and the temperature of the Indiana Democratic presidential primary rose sharply today after a one-day visit to Indianapolis by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

Wallace drew a blistering denunciation from Gov. Matthew E. Welsh of Indiana, whom he will oppose in the May 5 primary.

The Alabama governor said he is not running as a segregationist. He described himself as a state and local rights candidate.

The Indiana primary is the second of three scheduled by Wallace for active campaigning. Last week in Wisconsin he polled 260,000 votes, about 35 per cent of the total cast in the Democratic presidential primary. His third campaign will be in Maryland.

Wallace came to Indiana Wednesday, one day after having placed fourth among nine write-in candidates in Illinois. He polled more than 4,500 votes on both Democratic and Republican ballots there.

Welsh, who entered the presidential primary only to claim Hoosier "delegates" votes for President Johnson, quickly said he was "not interested" in an invitation from Wallace to debate.

The usually mild-mannered Welsh said in a statement, "This is the man whose beliefs were responsible for the deaths of innocent children in the bombing of a Sunday School class."

Outside a chemistry lecture hall where Wallace answered Butler University students' questions, another group of students picketed with signs like "no racism in Indiana."

"I'm not a racist," Wallace told the applauding students inside. "A racist is one who hates another person in his heart because of his color. I would not be a segregationist president. I would be a state and local rights president."

The student audience, asked to choose between the policies of the governors in a mock primary, voted for Wallace over Welsh, 70-55.

Wallace flew back to Alabama Wednesday night after saying he'll consider it a victory "if I get any votes at all." He said he'll be back for more campaign appearances, but he set no dates.

Indiana convention delegates are bound to cast their first-ballot vote for the presidential primary winner.

In the Republican primary, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona will make only one appearance next Monday, piped into a statewide television network out of Indianapolis. His only major opponent, Harold E. Stassen, will appear on the Butler campus Friday.

Write-in votes are not permitted in Indiana.

God points the way
and gives the invitation
...are you ready to hear?
Is Sunday church attendance the extent of your religious life? Do you expect to give the least and get the most? Is your Sunday morning prayer your weekly talk with God? Are you as anxious to work "overtime" in Kingdom service as you are at the plant where you earn your living? God is everywhere. Christ expects your best seven days a week... not just on Sunday. Here is the church.
He points the way. The invitation is for all; young people, old people and ages between. He says, "Follow Me."
